Dear Marc,

At our very first meeting to discuss how you might assist the school you described a multitude of possible strategies. When I asked which one you would choose to move us forward, you said, "It's like spaghetti. You just keep throwing it at the wall until something sticks." Well, it hardly took any time at all before we had a strategy that stuck--all the way to a successful resolution. You helped us navigate the byzantine worlds of bond finance and law; every step of the way we were able to remain confident that you had the school's interests at heart and that we would be in a better place for it. You are a tough negotiator, Marc, and that served us well. Your deep knowledge of the field, persistence, and personal integrity were a winning combination for Sonoma Academy.

Best,
